

home > national edition

Select An Edition

National

National | Family Life Issue 626

FORWARD TO A FRIEND PRINT

PlaySavvy

Making Learning Fun

PlaySavvy and Learn
Dreambox Learning

Birthday Parties

Cakes, parties & more

A Prize for Your Thoughts
Annual Reader Survey

Food & Drink

Recipes, parties and meals

Don't Be Nutty
Nut-free snack options

Health & Wellness

Happy, healthy families

Strider™ PREBikes

Family Finance

Savvy money solutions

A Dollar a Dollar
Teaching kids'

It's a Match

Parent Resource Websites

For the family in need of a tutor, it can be hard to find a perfect match with the right skills and experience (not to mention geographic location) to take your child to the top of the class. That's where findatutor.ca comes in. The creation of a Vancouver-based mom entrepreneur, this free-to-use site collects listings from tutors across the country. To search the site, enter the level of schooling, subject areas and/or location, and the site provides search results for registered tutors. Listings provide background, contact details, schedule availability and more to help find the perfect match. There is also a great collection of education-related links to provincial sites and fun, online games, too.

Now that you've got a sitter and a tutor, you can focus on activities. Making a match with the perfect music teacher is a lot easier with the help of musiclessonmatch.com. This new resource site allows families to connect with a local music teacher through its extensive Canada-wide directory of teachers. Search by location, instrument, cost or preference for home or studio lessons. If you can't find the perfect match, you can post a position request. The site also offers some helpful information on topics such as the right age to start lessons and what instruments are best for beginners.

It's not like we're playing with fire, we're just finding the perfect match.

How to Find

www.canadiannanny.ca

www.findatutor.ca

www.musiclessonmatch.com

Advertisement

SHARE YOUR thoughts about

SAVVY
MOM.ca

for your CHANCE TO WIN!

